MedPACS Announces Enhancements to Display Products

Hartland, WI, December 9, 2003 – MedPACS Displays, Inc. (MedPACS) has announced a number of new improvements to its NetDisplay, TeleDisplay and WebDisplay image display and review products. According to the company, release 3.42 enhancements include:

- Improved image series selection tool, making it easier when in 4-study review mode to select and place images from different series.
- Faster database presentation, speeding up the display of the images available for review.
- Toggle that allows annotation to be turned on/off to aid in reading images.
- Screen timeout that blanks the screen after a user configured amount of time, helping meet security and HIPAA requirements.
- Listing of recently viewed studies, allowing radiologists to check a scan before releasing the patient and then instantly return to the screen they were working at.

“We’ve made these changes based-on customer feedback and input,” commented Phil Jones, MedPACS president and founder. “This will improve an already intuitive and easy to use display system,” Jones added.

According to the company, customers with software maintenance agreements can receive these upgrades for free. Other customers not currently participating in the company’s SMA program can simply enroll and receive the upgrades.
